Fact Check

Persons with mental illness are not more violent than the general population.

- Persons with mental illness are more likely to be victims of violence.

- Misconception leads to discrimination, difficulty building relationships, and low self-esteem.

Learn more ways to make parishes everyone's home at ncpd.org